Re: Cease and Desist Yealink Infringement of Barco Patents

Dear Mr. Zhang, Mr. Rawls, and Mr. Wang:

I am following up on our email correspondence, to which I have not received a response since July 10, when Mr. Wang represented that Yealink would “keep in touch” regarding Barco’s patents. In addition to the previously identified patents infringed by Yealink’s A20-020-TEAMS Video Bar and WPP30 Presentation Pod, US 11,422,951 B2; US 10,795,832 B2; and US 10,762,002 B2, we have identified two additional patents that are infringed by Yealink’s continued sale of these products, U.S. Patent No 10,904,103 and 11,403,237. These five patents represent a small portion of Barco’s overall patent portfolio and additional patents of interest to Yealink can be found at <https://www.barco.com/us-en/about/patents>. Barco reserves its right to identify additional patents that are infringed by Yealink’s products.

Barco requests a response regarding Yealink’s ongoing infringement of Barco’s patents. If Barco does not receive a satisfactory response to resolve Yealink’s infringement, Barco is prepared to take all steps necessary to protect its intellectual property rights.

I await your prompt response.

Very truly yours

Christopher Centurelli
